HELPING A PUBLICITY SEEKER

Time was when any public man aching for a bit of notoriety could take a rise out of the Jews and become the hero of a day. Latterly there has been added a new means whereby publicity seekers could without much exertion hoist themselves into prominence. There is the subject of communism. Any tenth-rate politician, neglected official, or preacher tired of throwing eloquence at unappreciative empty pews, needs merely to raise his voice to an alarmist pitch and shout forth: "The communists are upon thee Canada," and behold he is instantly taken up as a noble patriot and savior of his country. And, of course, when one voice can manage to produce enough volume to bellow at the two menaces—the Jews and the communists—in one breath the owner is sure to become a hero, especially in the adoring eyes of the sanctimonious old lady of Melinda Street—the Toronto Globe. Such a vocal magnifico stands a good chance of being canonized by Toronto's journalistic keeper of the world's conscience.

The latest Toronto seeker for free publicity is a minister by the name of Dr. Gibson, who is hired to disseminate the ideals of Christian love and forbearance at Cooke's Presbyterian Church. Somehow he has not until now managed to achieve front-page importance. We are generally in the habit of scanning the Monday morning papers for reports of the Sunday sermons (after we get through reading the sporting page, of course) and we do not recall having come across the name of Dr. Gibson among the quoted clergy. But this does not mean that Dr. Gibson has not been cherishing ambitions of receiving a call to a more prominent and more lucrative pulpit. He must, therefore, have decided that it was time he did something to make the large public become cognizant of his being. Accordingly, he dug up a few editorials of the Toronto Globe dealing with the subject of communism, and with these as "documentary evidence", he ventured forth in a crusade for fame. He entered the lists as a battler against communism and incidentally against all organizations and people whom his inquisitorial, mind might choose to associate with communism. The more foes one slays the greater the hero one becomes. Dr. Gibson decided to war against every wind-mill he could think of and thus he acclaimed as a brave soldier worthy of preferment.

In his dictionary of religious terminology, Dr. Gibson contrived to find a vocabulary of very forceful vituperation against communism and against the Jewish people. Religious inspiration on the sacred day, loosens a holy man's tongue. Dr. Gibson became the medium for an undammed flow of abuse against the unholy communists and Jews. Another organization sponsored by a few harmless ministers and a groping rabbi, came in for a fair portion of condemnation by the godly person. Dr. Gibson did a good life job in one sermon.

Inspired vilification may not be convincing to all people. Therefore, Dr. Gibson made the gesture of bolstering up his trade with supposed statistics. He had "documentary evidence", he asseverated, to prove that between 75 and 90 per cent of the communist leaders in Russia are Jews. In his second sermon he was even more exact—the percentage of Jewish leadership was set forth by him as being 82. This is undoubtedly a very dangerous average—of anything under any conditions. Therefore a holy war must be waged against communism and the 82 percent of its leaders.

We will here make the highly original statement that we are not communists. We are not wild-eyed. We are rather too comfortably situated to relish being disturbed by any group of people bent on upsetting things. We know that there is a communist regime in control in Russia. But the reports concerning Russia being so varying and so contradictory, we have decided not to have any opinions about Russia, and not to worry about it, even as it does not worry about us. We have heard that there is a handful of people in Canada who profess to be prepared to make sacrifices for the cause of introducing Russian communism here. There are many more who claim to be sympathetic with Russian communism. Most of the people of this class are good bridge-players and follow the horses. Therefore, we do not think they are dangerous. However, we have no objection to Dr. Gibson disliking communism. Communism, here would mean the loss of his job, and he is justified in fighting for his job. We are a Jew, however, and we do not relish the sound of the well-known voice of anti-Semitism. It is only some few hundred years since Jews were burned at the stake. In many countries we still suffer cruel disabilities. Anti-Semitism always had specious arguments rationalizing its irrationalism. The arguments of Dr. Gibson against the Jews savor too much of the arguments of all well-known Jew-haters in history.

Perhaps it were better for us to have ignored Dr. Gibson and his ranting. He might have grown tired of the exertion of acting the crusader and lapsed back to his old ways of dealing in soporifics. He might have discovered that publicity-seeking is somewhat of an art, and requires a modicum of originality. Seeing red and baiting Jews is rather an old form of entertainment, and Dr. Gibson has been preceded by many others who were perhaps more adept at the game, and have already plucked the fruits. The Jewish community in Canada is well established, and in its manysided contacts with its neighbors, has earned the respect of the non-Jewish world. Nevertheless, it is difficult to refrain from coming back with a retort. Perhaps by thus helping Dr. Gibson out in his quest of fame, we will win his appreciation and friendship. When he gets his promotion, he will be a lover of the descendants and people of the prophets whom he professes to venerate.

Marriages

Vineberg-Friedman

The marriage of Anna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Friedman, to Ben Vineberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Vineberg, was solemnized Sunday, February 22, at Beth David Synagogue, with Rabbi Herschorn and Cantor Slopack officiating. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory satin gown on long lines made with long, tight sleeves. Her veil of tulle fell from a lace cap and clusters of orange blossoms on either side and she carried Calla lilies and lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Goldie Vineberg, as maid-of-honor, sister of the groom was gowned in eggshell satin and wore a large green hat with shoes to match and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. The bridesmaids all carried pink roses tied with pink ribbons. They were Misses Mamie Felscher in pale blue chiffon; Ray Steinberg, pale green crepe; Faye Steinberg, maize crepe; Sonia Berman, turquoise blue crepe; Mary Levine, eggshell satin; Rae Goodman, green flowered crepe; and Ethel Hammer, eggshell pink crepe all with long white gloves. Lou Zimmerman was best man and the groomsmen were Abe Mendelman, Mr. Machlovitch, Dave Felscher, Max Nudleman, Sam Scherr, William Levine, and I. Sternthal. Arnold Gilbert was page boy and wore a tuxedo. Mrs. Friedman, mother of the bride, was in black chiffon and gold brocade, black hat and a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Vineberg, the bridegroom's mother, wore black georgette, a matching hat and a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses. Dinner was served to 250 guests among whom were members of Syracuse Lodge No. 9, Knights of Pythias. Mesdames P. Koopferstock and R. Weisberg, representing the Hebrew Immigrant Protective Society, gave the couple a percolator and the Russian Polish Hebrew Sick Benefit Association gave them a pair of sterling silver candlesticks. From out of town were Mrs. Harry Jonesi, of Chicago, sister of the bride; Miss Sonia V. Berman, of Washington, D.C., cousin of the bride; and Max Vineberg, of New York, uncle of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Vineberg have left for an extended trip to New York, Baltimore, Md., and Washington, D.C. Going away the bride wore a green canton crepe frock trimmed with ermine, hat to match, a squirrel coat and a corsage of roses.

Lack-Weiser

The marriage of Rheva, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Weiser, to Irwin Allan Lack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Lack, was solemnized Sunday, February 22, at 5 p.m. at the Bnai Jacob Synagogue, Rabbi Abramowitz officiating. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of eggshell bridal satin, with lace trimming, fashioned on long fitted lines, the bodice having long, tight sleeves with a point of lace falling over her hands and the satin train falling from the waist line. Her tulle veil, extending beyond her train, was held in place by a tulle cap, caught across the back with a semi-circle of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Anna Lack, sister of the groom, was maid of honor gowned in royal blue chiffon with crepe shoes to match, and an arm bouquet of Columbia roses. Henry S. Weiser, brother of the bride, acted as best man. Mrs. S. Weiser, mother of the bride, was gowned in beige lace with a hat of celophane lace in the same tone and wore a shoulder bouquet of Richmond roses. Mrs. S. Lack, mother of the bridegroom, wore black lace with a black baku hat and a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses. A dinner and reception followed the ceremony in the Spanish Room of the Queen's Hotel. Later the bride and groom left on their honeymoon to New York, Atlantic City and Springfield, the bride travelling in a black caracul trimmed coat worn over a royal blue silk costume, and a black charmeuse straw hat. On their return the couple will live on Maplewood Avenue.

Goldberg-Kauffman

Mr. and Mrs. B. Goldberg, Guy Street, announce the marriage of their son, Michael, of Jersey City, New Jersey, to Miss Doris Kauffman, of La Macaza, Que., which was solemnized quietly Sunday afternoon, February 22, at the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue, with Rabbi C. Bender and Rev. I. de la Penha officiating. Dinner for the immediate family was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Goldberg, Guy Street.

Cohen-Vineberg

The marriage of Sadie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Vineberg, to Isie Cohen, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Cohen, took place Sunday, February 22, at the home of Rabbi Herschorn, followed by a dinner at the Carmen Sylva for thirty-five guests. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a powder blue crepe gown, blue felt hat and brocaded slippers to match and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Miss Rosaline Markman was the bride's only attendant wearing maroon satin with felt hat and satin slippers to match. Mrs. Vineberg, mother of bride, wore black lace and the groom's mother was in black crepe. Both corsages were of roses. Later the bride and groom

PURIM NOT A FICTION!

Some scholars are of the opinion that the Book of Esther narrative which gives rise to the Festival of Purim is a fine bit of fiction. That may be. But supposing Mordecai, or Queen Esther, or King Ahasuerus or Haman actually did not live? Yet the Purim holiday is, in a sense, the most historical of our feasts. For in every age there always have been Hamans, there always have been the like of King Ahasuerus—there always were those who became envious of the Jew and sought Israel's destruction. And they who plotted against Israel ever failed.

This is an historic fact. And it is so to-day as in yester years. For Israel is an immortal people.' That immortality has been promised to the Jew at the dawn of history:

"Thus saith the Lord,
Who giveth the sun for a light by day,
And the ordinances of the moon and of the stars for a light by night
Who stirreth up the sea, that the waves thereof roar.
If these ordinances depart from before me,
Saith the Lord
Then the seed of Israel also shall cease
From being a nation before Me for ever".

KINDNESS TO ANIMALS

What a pity that non-Jews know so little about the humanitarianism of Israel's laws! Only the other day a well-educated lady, a Christian social service worker, asked us if Jews teach their children anything about kindness toward the dumb creatures? We of course hastened to remind the well meaning lady that the Bible is the product of Israel's genius and that in this "book of books" Israel's great teachers formulated some of the most sublime laws regarding tenderness to the dumb creatures.

Jews neither defied nor mistreated their animals. The pious Jew ever repeated the words of the Psalmist: "The Lord is good to all and His tender mercies are over all His works".

Moses, the greatest teacher of Israel, showed solicitude for the beasts in the very structure of Israel's institutional life. The Sabbath Day he established not alone for men but also for beasts. The Sabbatical year he commanded to be a year the increase whereof shall be left for the cattle, the wild animals, as well as for the poor and stranger.

The Rabbis of the Talmud taught: "The Righteous man regarded the life of his beast". They point out that it was when Moses ran after a stray lamb and helped it slake its thirst that God said: "thou hast shown thyself merciful to a little lamb, then deservest to feed my flock, Israel".

In Judaism, man owes obligations not only to God and his fellowmen, but also to his fellow-animals. Kindness to animals is with Jews no mere conventionality—no mere sentimentality. Kindness to all creatures is part and parcel of the Jewish conception of justice. The poet Coleridge utters a great and noble Jewish truth when he says:

"He prayeth best who loveth best
All things, both great and small;
For the dear God who loveth us
He made and loveth all".

BREAD LINES—WHY?

General unemployment has now been in existence for over a year and we find ourselves facing a tremendous problem. An immediate solution to this vexing problem is not to be expected. But certainly there is no reason on earth for bread lines! There is enough surplus wealth both in the United States and Canada to eliminate at once the horrible sight of human beings freezing for hours in the cold waiting for a piece of bread and a cup of coffee. What are the men of means doing in behalf of the unfortunate who find themselves jobless and breadless? Religions have taught men to practice charity—we see no outpouring of it in this crisis! Religions have asked men to do justly—what a meagerness of justice is practiced in the economic world! And that is why we have bread lines.

The dog opened one eye, uttered a yelping yawn and attempted to go through the atavistic ceremony of turning around three times, of bedding down his warm nest in her arms. Ann absent-mindedly let him tumble out of her embrace to the hearth rug. Her feeling for this pet of hers had lost its former sturdy gusto; she went through the time-honored gestures of devotion—but mechanically, perfunctorily. Sandy himself realized this fact. He had been sent up to town day before yesterday from the Morgenthal kennels on Long Island, where he had been a distinguished guest for the past three months. Ann had been delighted to see him again, of course; but there had soon come into her eyes an expression of regret and contrition. The warmth of the old jolly times could not be recaptured. Dumped to the floor now. Sandy shot one injured glance at her, then threw himself over on his side with a grunt of disgust and went back to sleep.

"It's after your bedtime, George." Ann spoke with a gentle cheery insistence. "Come along."

She had taken hold of the paper in his hand and was attempting to wheedle it away from him; but his grasp on it tightened.

"Please don't, Ann." He shook a reproving head. "I've got to finish this report. I don't want Albert Bernstein to think, after he's gone to all this trouble of collecting data for me, that I'm shirking. I'm not tired, really." He pried her fingers loose, settled himself deeper in his chair and returned to his reading.

She straightened and smiled down at him. Even when he was not watching her, she gave him these sweet friendly smiles. Wandering to the table near the window, she picked up a cigarette; as she struck a match, he jerked up his head.

"Ann—go to bed, there's a dear. Don't sit up for me." His eyes had a harassed tenderness; but in their depths she could catch little phosphorescent gleams.

She blew out the match at once and tossed the cigarette back on the table. "You'd rather I went to bed?" Her voice was without a trace of anger; but she let him know that she required the truth from him. "It bothers you to have me here—doesn't it, George?"

He admitted, a bit miserably, that she was right. "I'd rather you went to bed—I'm afraid I'd rather," was the way he worded his confession. "If I don't concentrate, you know, I'll never get the hang to this damned silver mine."

"All right." She was neither curt nor humbly obedient. She understood his frantic conscientiousness; but she would never be moved by it to the self-denial of the meek young wife. "Good night."

"Night." He was evidently too much engrossed in his statistics to spare time for more than the one short word.

Ann had known that she would be unable to sleep. In the bed, she lay

THREE NEW YORK STOCKS ADVISED

G. H. Jaray amongst a great number of his friends is known for the accuracy of his forecasting the swing of the stock market and his successful transactions. On special request Mr. Jaray has now consented to give the readers of the Review some information from time to time. Through the elapse of time, however, between the printing and the receiving of the Review his information will very often be of little use. Mr. Jaray follows the New York Stock Market very carefully and it is "only with volume" that he is able to forecast successfully. The Review, as a special service to readers, suggests that those who are interested in speedy free information should send in their request to Mr. Jaray c/o the Review without any obligation on their part.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE EXTRA.

Wednesday morning, Feb. 25th. 1931

At the time of this Review going to press none of the undermentioned stocks are quoted at the indicated price levels. These may or may not be reached; but caution must be exercised and constant watching of the ticker is advised. Once in and the stock reacts one must not hesitate to take a loss of say about 2 points, but remember to take a reasonable profit say about 2 to 5 points. For friends the following orders were placed today before the opening of the market and in the next issue a report will appear on the results.

| | If the market last close goes up, to | February 25 buy when at market |
|---|---|---|
| Public Service Corp. | | 87¼ |
| Paramount Public (needs careful watching) | 51 | 49 |
| General Asphalt (needs careful watching) | 46 | 42⅞ |

Many pools have thrown their holdings on the market in taking their profit and consequently a reaction may be expected at any moment. The above stocks, however, appear not to have been liquidated as yet with the result that should these shares reach the above levels immediate appreciation should be looked for.

ZIONIST DIRECTOR APPEALS ON BEHALF OF DRIVE

In the Dominion-wide Jewish National Fund Drive during the approaching week of Purim, March 1 to March 7, Rabbi J. L. Zlotnik, Executive Director of the Canadian Zionist Organization, appeals to Canadian Jewry to increase its efforts on behalf of the Holy Land, in the following statement: "The Executive of the Dominion Hadassah Organization will inscribe in the Golden Book the three Hadassah chapters, one in each Division, that achieve the most during this campaign. A special committee, consisting of National Council members, will be appointed to choose the winning units. Consideration will be given to the size of the communities thus affording every chapter an equal opportunity to win.

Under the auspices of some of the "best" Jewish people in Detroit, there is being conducted in broad daylight the Mothers' Clinic for Family Regulation, a report of which is now available in a pamphlet entitled "A Social Experiment in Birth Control." This study was prepared by Dr. Max Wershow, of the medical staff of the Mothers' Club, who urges that the work made possible through the Jewish Welfare Federation, be extended in other Michigan cities; in congested quarters for the working population; and through evening clinics.

This analysis of 1,000 cases from the records of the Mothers' Clinic shows that of the agencies referring patients to the clinic, the Visiting Nurses sent 470; private physicians recommended 141; the Detroit Board of Health, 110; and the Jewish Social Service Bureau referred 43 cases. Now the race of religious groups attending the Clinic: 649 or 65.8 percent, were Protestants; 242 or 24.5 per cent, Catholics; 93, or 9.4 percent, Jewish. The cases analyzed were treated since the Mothers' Clinic was organized in 1927 at the suggestion of Morris D. Waldman, Executive Director of the Jewish Welfare Federation, and at present secretary of the American Jewish Committee. It began with one clinic session a week and now conducts three, always with a physician and registered nurse in charge. No patient is accepted without a letter from a recognized social agency or private physician.

Dr. Wershow's conclusions are these: "1. Scientifically prescribed contraception is fundamentally a constructive and valuable form of social service as well as a basically sound mode of medical prophylaxis. 2. People of every stratum of society are attempting to limit their families by some popular method. Some of these methods are harmful and detrimental to the health of the parties concerned. Scientifically prescribed contraception substitutes a rational scientific method for the haphazard methods which are generally in use. 3. Scientific birth control makes it possible for the married couple to have as many children as desired, properly spaced, and only when they are adequately prepared to maintain the children according to a reasonable standard of life. 4. It tends to eliminate or diminish the present [illegible] pregnancies that constitute an economic waste and a physical hazard to mothers. 5. It materially reduces the high mortality rate following childbirth by making the information available to mothers who are afflicted with organic disease, and who are physically unable to survive the stress of pregnancy and labor. 6. The [illegible] is the obligation [illegible] anyone who finds it contrary to their ethical views or conscience. It should undoubtedly be available to those who share a different view and who feel that properly prescribed information or the services would enhance their marital happiness and contribute to the peace and well-being of the home."

In view of the fact that this work is being carried on under Jewish auspices it is interesting to note that Rabbi Sidney E. Goldstein of the Jewish Institute of Religion in New York was among those who appeared during the recent hearings before a Senate committee at Washington to demand the enactment of the Gillett bill to legalize the dissemination of birth control information through the mails. Physicians, sociologists, religious leaders and not a few of our prominent statesmen denounced the present federal statute as [illegible] and unjust and inimical to the mother's welfare, family happiness, social welfare and national progress. Rabbi Goldstein admitted that the Biblical injunction to "increase and multiply" conflict with the theory of birth control, but said that the first time it was given there were only two people in the Garden of Eden; and the second time we were told to "replenish the earth" Rabbi Goldstein said, "We should reconcile ourselves to the increasing problem of population to the job supply. Let [illegible] work for more than subsist. The population does not consist of those who are born but of those who survive."

A bulletin published by the United States Department of Commerce, entitled "Jewish Congregations" says in part: "New congregations are formed when some prominent and wealthy Jews of a neighborhood realize that the need for a congregation exists and being able to meet its financial and other responsibilities organize one for the neighborhood [illegible]. There are no examinations for membership. But when [illegible] one of whose members is a strict observer of the Sabbath will not admit Jews who are not such and no congregation will admit [illegible] who is not a Jew of unimpeachable character."

It is probable that the author of this report has had [illegible] with the social workers for the old organization of Jewish con-

Historical Sketches

(Suggestions for these sketches will be received gratefully; also any additions or corrections.)

In the Lyons Collection of the American Jewish Historical Society is the Minute Book of Rabbi Lyons of Congregation Shearith Israel of New York, in which there is the following entry: "Tuesday Fourth Lyar, 5570. Circumcized a son of Mr. Ezekiel and Mrs. Frances Hart, of Canada, aged 8 months and two weeks and named him Ira James Craig. On the 19th of October left New York for Canada. Arrived at Montreal on the 27th. On the 28th, circumcized the son of Mr. Samuel David and called him by the name of Eleazar David. On the 4th. of November at Three Rivers circumcized the son of Mr. Benjamin Hart, named Aaron Uri. On the 8th. of November circumcized a son of Mr. Henry Joseph at Berthier, naming him Benjamin Solomon and on the 14th. of November I left Montreal and arrived safe home on the 21st. of November 1811."

Some of the members of the Montreal Jewish community had pews in the New York synagogue though they would go there only once or twice a year. They relied upon New York as a centre of Judaism to keep them in touch with Jewish life and spiritual affairs. Jews in Canada lived in close proximity, family to family, and Jewish life surrounded itself with Jewish traditions. Henry Joseph and his wife, Rachel Solomons, were very pious. He learned the rules for killing cattle and fowls in order to follow the dietary laws and devised a Jewish calendar so that all the holy days and each Sabbath would be observed. Their children heard the Jewish prayers and although they were allowed to make friends among the Gentiles, were enjoined never to break away from the ties of their fathers. Socially Jews mingled on an equal footing with the Gentiles but there was a certain biased attitude toward them as evidenced, for example, by the fact that Jews were not welcome in the Militia, it having been claimed that the soldiers' were against it.

The religious census of 1801 showed that there were only 107 Jews in Lower Canada. By 1814 there were only 154 Jews in Lower Canada. The cholera epidemic of 1832 claimed many Jews as victims among them Henry Joseph on June 21st., the day when 150 people died in Montreal from the disease.

It is thought that Jews were in Upper Canada as early as 1817 but the first Jew known to have established himself was Arthur Wellington Hart, who, according to the York (now Toronto) Town Directory for 1833, was in the insurance business under the name of A. W. Hart and Company. In 1834 L. Joseph had a general store in Toronto. Judah G. Joseph came from England with his family in 1830. He was an optician and jeweller at 56 King Street East and advertised as a "spectacle and mathematical instrument maker." He was a strict Jew who closed his store every Friday at sunset. He may be called a founder of the Jewish community in Toronto. He and Joseph Benjamin were among the first subscribers to the "Occident" of Philadelphia. Henry A. Joseph, a native of Sorel, Que., settled in Toronto and opened a fur store at 70 Yonge Street. He married an English lady of the Episcopalian church and drifted away from Judaism. Gershom Joseph, a student in Upper Canada College, later registered in 1838 at the University of Toronto and graduated with the degrees of M. A. and B. C. L. He studied with Chief Justice Meredith and Judge Mondelet and was appointed queen's Counsel. Lewis Benjamin and Frederick T. Judah preceded him as queen's Counsel, the latter having been a partner of the Hon. J. C. C. Abbott, afterwards Prime Minister of Canada. In Montreal the first Jewish advocate was Aaron Phillip Hart who was practicing in 1830. Before that time Jews had made their living chiefly in business or trades.

gregations. There always ought to be more jokes, of course, where-ever possible in this life, but the above are a couple of pretty good ones, unintentional as they are. Why, every Jew knows that the basic cause for the organization of a new synagogue usually is some trivial disagreement, personal or otherwise, between members or between members and rabbi or rabbi's wife. The time chosen is not when the proposed congregation is able to bear its financial responsibilities but when it is not able to bear them. What would be the pleasure in starting a new congregation except under difficulties and when there is no use in it, anyway?

And then that other one about congregations every one of whose members is a strict observer of the Sabbath. A free and life subscription to the Review goes to the person who can indicate the existence of such a congregation today. As to the congregation which will not admit to membership one who is not a Jew of unimpeachable character, try it on yourself and file that remark under the heading of mythology.

(The Assets of Metropolitan Life are the largest of any financial institution in the world)

Insured and Assured

Metropolitan policyholders—including about one-fifth of the total populations of Canada and the United States—have built up their reserves from millions into billions.

THE financial story below is a record of achievement by men and women who are planning to avert want or to build estates. You may admire their steadfastness of purpose last year under handicaps which tested courage.

These people—policyholders of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company—are building for their future. They would like to know what the future holds in store for them and for their countries as a whole.

Let them, and other citizens, examine any chart of the unparalleled prosperity of Canada and the United States over the past hundred years. It appears not merely as a jagged line, but as a series of towering steps which rise steadily onward and upward.

It is heartening now to recall that, after each depression, our countries have always gone forward to greater heights of prosperity and better, sounder standards of living.

Today our countries have more riches and better facilities than ever before with which to commence our next great period of development.

A review of the financial history of both Canada and the United States should turn any pessimist into an optimist.

Northern Ontario, now open for settlement at fifty cents per acre, contains millions of acres of the finest agricultural land in the world. Its resources in lumber, minerals, water, power, fish, game and scenery are immense. The land calls for men to cultivate it, and in return will give health, comfort and prosperity.

What settlers say of the soil, climate, farming, and forest life, is told in a most attractive booklet issued under the direction of the Honourable Thomas L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario. Full instructions in regards to acquiring a title to these rich agricultural lands are also given.

For free copies write: G. A. ELLIOTT, Director of Colonization, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Ontario. "Please mention this paper."

"A strictly family affair"

Take the average home. Washday used to be a case of put everything else aside and get the unwelcome drudgery over. Nowadays, everything for the family, from rag rugs to lingerie and men's shirts, goes into the bundle to this laundry and "washday" in the home is a thing of the past. Remember — this laundry is the result of years of scientific planning and was built—every inch of it — for just one purpose, "family wash." We do nothing else, but we do that one thing, we believe, just a little better than anyone else. Choose from our six different kinds of family wash service one that suits your own particular needs. Perhaps we may be able to help you choose. Phone to-day, or stop any one of our courteous driver-salesmen.

Among Toronto Jewish Women

Mrs. P. James, 211 Admiral Road, says: "In this day when almost every woman belongs to bridge clubs and numerous other organizations it is rare to find one who gives of her time and energy towards the carrying out of the Jewish traditions in her home, as was formerly done. The few women who do are much to be admired. Mrs. Sam Resnick of 108 Madison Avenue, is one of those rare persons. When you enter her home on a Friday evening it does not take much imagination to believe you are in a European home; the aesthetic and spiritual quality of Judaism is so truly manifested. Mrs. Resnick is the capable president of the Rose Chapter of Hadassah. She was the convener of the artistically arranged antique booth at the Hadassah Exposition and is a wonderful hostess. Mrs. L. Gelber, of 188 Lowther Avenue, is another woman who is one of the finest examples of Jewish womanhood. She is a remarkably intelligent and devoted mother whose children bear eloquent testimony to her wisdom. Mrs. J. Hauser, of 128 Spadina Road, in my estimation is the most unselfish of women. She is always ready to serve the community willingly and cheerfully, no matter what the undertaking. On cold days many a postman and tradesperson have relished the cup of tea or glass of wine with which they were refreshed at Mrs. Hauser's home. I saw her once accost a poorly clad woman on the street and take off her own gloves and give them to her. Her gifts of food and clothes to the poor and sick and her many visits and kind words to them make her a beloved little figure in this city. "Mrs. Bella Dubinsky, Mrs. A. I. Willinsky's mother, of 120 Madison Avenue, does a great deal of work outside organizations which is highly prized because it is true charity no one knowing about it except the person who derives the benefit."

Miss Sue Glassman, Markham Street, was hostess Thursday evening at bridge in honor of Miss Adeline Fine, a bride-elect.

Miss Molly Cohen, of Windsor, Ont., who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. M. Steven, Glenhaillie Street, left for home on Tuesday.

Mrs. Charles Markowitz, Dundas Street West, entertained Wednesday at bridge.

Misses Maud and Gertrude Shapiro and Morris Shapiro, of Windsor, Ont., were in town for a few days visiting their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. S. Heller, Brunswick Avenue.

Earl Torno, Dundas Street East, was host Saturday evening last at his home in honor of Miss Esther Opsbaum's birthday. Misses Pearl Soltz, Kay Sutin, Anne Tator, Anne Grossman, Mr. and Mrs. W. Sable, Mr. and Mrs. S. Jolovsky, Sam and Noah Torno, Sam Rosenthal and Sam Lyons were there.

Mrs. William Krangle, Brunswick Gardens, entertained Monday evening at a bridge and presentation in honor of Miss Clara Miller, a bride-elect; Mrs. L. Shulman, who is leaving the city to make her home in Winnipeg, and Miss Ida Sedlesky of Detroit, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Markus, Northcliffe Boulevard, were hosts at dinner in honor of their niece, Sylvia Jacobson's, third birthday.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. L. Kisluck (née Thelma Clavir) returned Sunday from the South where they spent their honeymoon.

* * *

Mrs. A. Samuels, Huron Street, entertained on Thursday at three tables of bridge in honor of her sister, Mrs. Al Ginsberg, of Huntsville, Ont.

Miss Anne Albert, Queen Street West, was at home to some of her friends at bridge, Sunday evening last.

Clever Hostess

A single new dish added to my collection of recipes in a month's time used to be a bright spot amid the routine of preparing meal after meal, week after week. But with the installation of a Gas Refrigerator, my list of new and untried recipes is almost without limit! There are the fruit salads, mousses, parfaits, sherbets, frappes — the ice cubes, plain or colored — until now the preparation of an ingenious dessert is just one more new experience with the freezing compartment. I never need repeat a single dessert—except by popular demand!

Marriages

Kupferberg-Nussbaum

The marriage was solemnized of Celia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Nussbaum and Morris, son of Mrs. S. Kupferberg and the late Mr. Kupferberg of Chicago, on Wednesday, February 18th, at the bride's home on Beverley Street. Rabbi Langer and the bride's brother, Perry E. Nussbaum, officiated. The bride, who was given away by her parents, wore a gown of aquamarine chiffon with hat and shoes to match and carried a bouquet of butterfly roses and lily of the valley. Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. S. J. Nussbaum, in black chiffon with corsage of Talisman roses. S. J. Nussbaum was best man. The bride's mother wore beige lace with corsage of roses and Mrs. Kupferberg, the groom's mother, wore black chiffon with corsage of roses. Mr. and Mrs. Kupferberg will live at No. 2600 North Kimball Avenue, Chicago, on their return from their honeymoon.

quite still, her eyes wide open. She did not waste even the first few minutes in the profitless struggle after unconsciousness. She was willing to stay awake once in a while; she had none of the purposefulness of the insomniac victim, who waits in fierce expectancy for oblivion, as if it were a stream that, rushing by once during the night, must be plunged into headlong at the swift moment of its passage. Her spent young body could rest while her brain worked at a great speed.

These last two days had run a confusingly capable course; and yet they had made her sad George, in New York, and from the start shown his love-interest and worry; not there had been hardly a sign of coyness in his attitude. Ann had expected his eyes to cry out, but deep was the ocean-like sounds fraught with the threat of thunder on the steamer; no look passed one by many a sly look that he meant to let out as the black mysterious cape of his nature the moment he crossed the Canada threshold. But no stranger had an entered the house than his mood changed, into that clear sky, so sheltered and protected by its own purity, something of Ann's previous escapes and strategies. All of these, he did seem to realize that her love for him was a distillation sprung from a subtle fragrance that exhaled deep searching pleasures on the part for its detection.
